The first game was a victory for Mt. Prospect, 16 to 11. The batteries of Sharringhausen and Verret outlasted that of McMannus and Knollmueller. The second game went to the youngsters of Prospect Heights by a close margin of 12 to 11.

McMannus was the winning pitcher this time as well as in the final game which the Heights boys took in a hard fought game by a 6 to 2 count. Vath and Rash worked for the losers.

These were the first games for either team, and considering there have been few practice sessions, both teams played good ball. They play regulation hard league ball, with both teams having a home playing field. They are anxious to book games with other junior teams up to 16 years of age. Any team interested in playing these squads can do so by calling coach Bob Winkle of the Mt. Prospect team at

It is hoped that a group of teams can be organized so that a regular schedule of games can be booked. This is the only way the boys have a chance to develop their skill in the great national game. It is also a good preparatory training ground for those who will be playing high school ball later.

Mr. Winkle will also be glad to offer suggestions to those interested in organizing a new team in their community.

Games 3 and 4 nights a week draw more crowds

by BOB PADDOCK

Night softball under the lights of the Palatine Park district is paying off in a big way for fans of this area with larger crowds appearing to watch their favorite teams as the season wears on. For years Palatine ball fans regretted there was no official

Palatine league, with twilight softball attracting comparatively few fans. It has long been felt that lights would bring out both teams and fans. And that is exactly what has happened in the new Palatine Park adjoining the Northwest highway as it curves through town. Those lights were first turned on about a month ago, and the bleachers have been pretty well filled ever since. LOCAL LEAGUE started with doubleheaders Tuesday and Thursday nights. Then last Sunday night the first of a series of contests was held in which Haseman aggregation, leaders of the Palatine league, succumbed in eleven innings to Des Plaines VFW's first team, leaders in the strong Bensenville loop. Tuesday night of this week the "greatest crowd yet" saw another two games of the regular league schedule. That crowd more than filled the stands with plenty of persons watching from parked cars along the outskirts of the field.

This Friday another special game is planned with Hasemans to meet the Mt. Prospect AC under the lights at 8:30. Monday night, July 4, Palatine Theater squad takes on the House of Rada nine of the Arlington Heights league in the opener at 7:30 while Hasemans meet Jewel Tea of Barrington in the nightcap. There is no Sunday evening game, July 3.

ing done for the comfort of the fans. A loud speaker system keeps them informed of progress of the game. Bleachers seat several hundred, with auto parking permitting more fans to see the Perhaps one of the outstanding conveniences of the field is the dual-purpose refreshment stand. According to Richard K. Welty, director of the summer program, that stand did a land office business Tuesday night catering to fans' needs. Profit from the stand pays for future park equipment and helps sustain the recreation program. A "pass the hat" program brings in enough to defray expenses of lighting.

By IRA MILLER Farm Electrification Bureau

Feed processing is a home chore now on many farms. This is particularly true in cases where electricity can be employed to put the job on an automatic basis.

By processing their own feed, farmers save the cost and inconvenience of hauling whole grain to commercial mills. They eliminate the feeding formulas. Feed processing setups vary. And well they might, for no two farms are alike and no two men farm alike. To work best, therefore, each setup is to be used. Of course, all will can- of power.

tain some basic features, including overhead storage bins, conveyors (elevators and/or blowers), grinders, mixers and spouts, to link up equipment and bins.

In ordinary operation, whole grain is elevated or blown into bins at harvest time. When desired, it is permitted to flow by gravity through a spout into the grinder. From this point, however, the story can move in several different directions. Some farmers let the ground grain drop into a box under the grinder. Others utilize the blower on the mill to blow it into a feed bin-usually overhead so that it can be removed easily and with little effort. Or, as in the accompanying picture, ground grain may be allowed to spill out of the grinder into the hopper of an adjacent mixer. Both pieces of equipment are electri-

Here's how the outfit works: Whole grain drops from bins into the grinder hrough the metal chute at the upper left. Concentrates are placed in the hopper of the mixer. After the feed chute gate has been opened and the concentrates added, the farmer goes about his chores without giving further attention to the mill or mixer. Feed is drawn from the mixer into a feed cart.

The mill is operated by a 1 horsepower motor and the mixer by a 5 horsepower motor. Each motor is need for storing large quantities of ground grain, and make feed grinding device and the mill is built to operequipped with an overload protective and mixing a spare time operation. ate safely even when no grain is fed The use of a mixer also enables farm- into it. Some farmers use a time ers to follow their own particular switch or other device to turn off the equipment and flow of grain when a large enough supply of feed has been ground. The power consumption cost of grinding and mixing a ton of feed (including 600 pounds of oats and 400 pounds of corn, plus supplements) should be built on the farm where it with this setup totals & kilowatt hours

"This would indicate that there will be some corn borer damage this year," says Hughes.

"However it is our opinion that the infestation is not so heavy in Cook County as it apparently is downstate. On the PAGE NINETEEN earliest planted corn that at the is considerably above knee high there is one egg mass, sometimes two, on most stalks of corn. On corn somewhat smaller than this there may be an egg mass on every other stalk. Corn that is not over knee high by the 4th of July will not have a great many corn borer eggs on them and, in our opinion, will cause the grower no

"While there are large numbers of eggs in the tallest corn and it undoubtedly would pay to start spraying with DDT, we believe that for field corn that is not too economical a procedure. Usually there should be two sprayings on every heavily infested field where there will be probably as many as half a dozen corn borers per stalk. We do wish to qualify these predictions because when the corn borers hatch out they are small fragile worms, and should weather turn hot and dry with possible hot winds, most of these little worms will perish. If, on the other hand, weather is fairly cool and there is some humidity, there is a good chance of these little borers having a high survival

"It is our experience in Northern Cook County that corn planted between the 15th and 20th of May will have a small number of borers and yield more bushels of corn to the

"Since there are apparently more corn borers in Southern Cook County this year, we would be inclined to feel that planting should be started about May 20 or possibly 4 or 5 days later for the South end of the county. On the other hand, early sweet corn is more profitable than late sweet corn for a vegetable grower, so he should plant early and be all set to spray.'

DDT should be kept off of corn to be used for fodder or silage as the pure Foods People are questioning the appearance of DDT in milk.

Four tips given for summer care

Sam Ridlen, Illinois College of Agriculture poultry-man, today passed along four tips for best summer care of poultry. His suggestions are to keep range grass mowed short, put range fences in good condition, move range shelters and feeders to clean areas, and make sure your automatic waterers are working right.

Chickens like short grass the best, and cutting the grass may help to get rid of rodents and other pests. Tall grass covered with rain or dew prevents full use of the range and may even cause some loss of small chicks.

Repairing the range fence is a good job for a rainy day. A good solid fence will keep your chicks where you want them, and you won't have to explain why the flower bed is all scratched up.

Ridlen also suggests that it's good sanitation to move shelters and feeders to clean areas. It gets the chickens away from places where droppings have accumulated and cuts down on And, finally, hot weather is the time when chicks need plen-

Don't let the racket get you down

Mankind finds itself in a vicious circle. As life becomes more and more complex, the diseases which we are heir to become more numerous. As we conquer one disease---for example, smallpox-and it begins to disappear from the face of the earth, new ones arise to take their place as the result of man's "civilization."

A century ago when we were largely an agricultural and small town nation our forefathers lived in a world of relative quiet. As industrialism has grown and the population has shifted to the cities, our ears have been bombarded with an ever-increasing amount of racket. "Noise deafness" and nervous conditions due to excessive noise are becoming problems which require careful study by well trained scientists for their control.

At the turn of the century a survey made of 100 boiler makers with more than three or four years experience revealed that none had normal hearing. This condition became known as "boiler makers' deafness." Since then it has become increasingly apparent that exposure to extremely loud sounds for long will result in impaired hearing. The louder the sound, and the longer the period of exposure, the greater the impair-Apparently, young persons are more susceptible than their elders; persons with preexisting hearing difficulty are not so susceptible.

Even noise of moderate intensity has a harmful effect on persons of nervous temperament. Watch someone who is particularly on edge. They jump when the least sudden noise is heard. And they find that constant talking, radio playing, and traffic noises make them extremely irritable and jumpy. As a matter of fact, practically all of us find ourselves aggravated at times by the radio, crying babies, or the nearby neighbors.

It has been recognized in offices and factories that excessive tion, and quiet floors have increased efficiency and decreased absenteeism to a remarkable degree in offices where these methods have been tried.
